The “M” in OMB

“Government should be results-oriented—
guided not by process but by performance.” –
George W. Bush, 2000

In other words....

Focus on results, not dollars.

Motivation and Context

- The focus for the Bush Administration – and for the U.S. Congress – must not be just the amount of funding provided to a program, but also on how effective the program is.
- This focus is only strengthened by the current need for fiscal restraint. The U.S. is current in a period of deficit spending, and the Administration intends to reduce the deficit by half in the next five years.

The Challenge

- Challenge: How to incorporate program results into funding and management decisions?
- The Government Performance Results Act (GPRA) currently requires detailed plans and reports on agency performance.
- However, these requirements:
 - Do not yield useful information for funding decisions and management reform.
 - Do not provide performance reports in time for Executive Branch decisions.

President's Management Agenda

- In 2001, the Bush Administration released its President's Management Agenda (PMA) to provide standards and goals for improving management across U.S. Government agencies.
- The President's Management Agenda features five broad management initiatives, plus several more specific initiatives, including one on Federal R&D.

The Program Assessment Rating Tool (PART)

- OMB developed the PART as a tool for assessing programs consistently across the government.
- The PART has four sections:
 1. Program Purpose and Design
 2. Strategic Planning
 3. Program Management
 4. Program Results/Accountability
- Each section has 5 to 10 questions.

PARTs Tailored to Program Type

- The PART has seven versions, one for each program “type”:
 - credit
 - competitive grant
 - regulatory
 - research and development
 - block/formula grant
 - direct federal
 - capital assets
- Most questions in each version of the PART are identical; there are simply a few tailored questions based on program “type” at the end of some sections.

Section I: Purpose & Design

- Is the program purpose clear?
- Does the program address a specific and existing problem?
- Is the program designed so that it is not redundant or duplicative of any other Federal, State, local or private effort?
- Is the program design free of major flaws that limit the program's effectiveness or efficiency?
- Is the program effectively targeted, so that resources will reach intended beneficiaries?

Section II: Strategic Planning

Does the program have:

- Long-term performance measures that focus on outcomes and reflect the program's purpose?
- Ambitious targets for long-term measures?
- Specific annual performance measures that can demonstrate progress toward long-term goals?
- Baselines and targets for annual measures?

Are budget requests tied to accomplishment of the annual and long-term performance goals?

Section III: Program Management

Questions focus on:

- Effective management of the program
- Financial oversight
- Evaluation of program improvements
- Data collection
- Accountability of Federal managers and program partners (including contractors, etc.)

Section IV: Program Results/Accountability

Highlights:

- Focus is results – is program meeting goals?
- Linked to Measures & Targets from Section II
- Scoring (other sections are Yes or No):
 - Yes
 - Large Extent
 - Small Extent
 - No
 - Not Applicable

Section IV: Program Results/Accountability

Has program:

- Demonstrated adequate progress achieving long-term performance goals?
 - Achieved its annual performance goals?
 - Demonstrated improved efficiencies in achieving program goals?
 - Demonstrated performance that compares favorably with similar programs?
- Do independent evaluations indicate program is effective and achieving results?

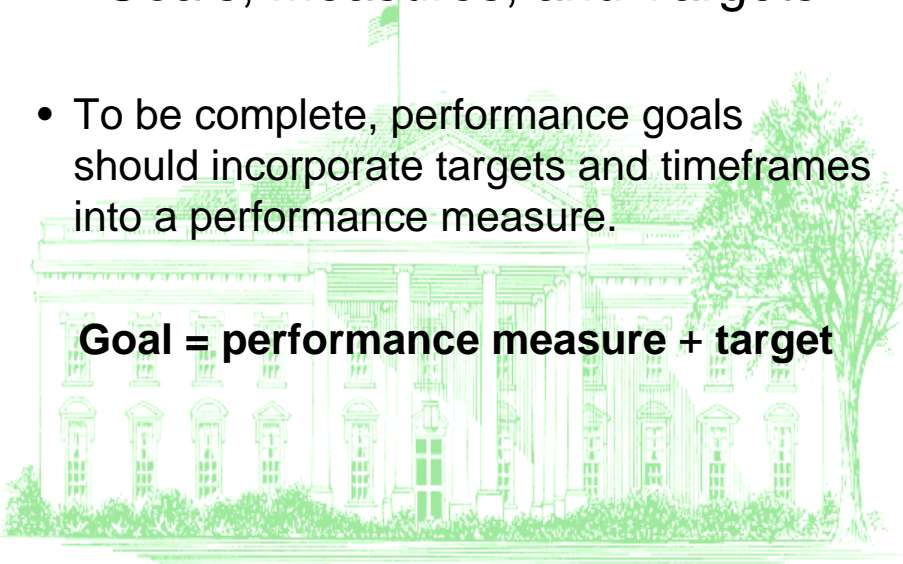

Performance Measures

- The PART includes a strong focus on performance measures because the key to assessing program effectiveness is measuring the right things.
- Performance measures should be salient, meaningful, and capture the most important aspects of a program's mission and priorities.
- Key distinctions to consider:
 - 1) performance goals, measures, and targets
 - 2) measures of outcome and output
 - 3) annual and long-term timeframes

Goals, Measures, and Targets

- To be complete, performance goals should incorporate targets and timeframes into a performance measure.

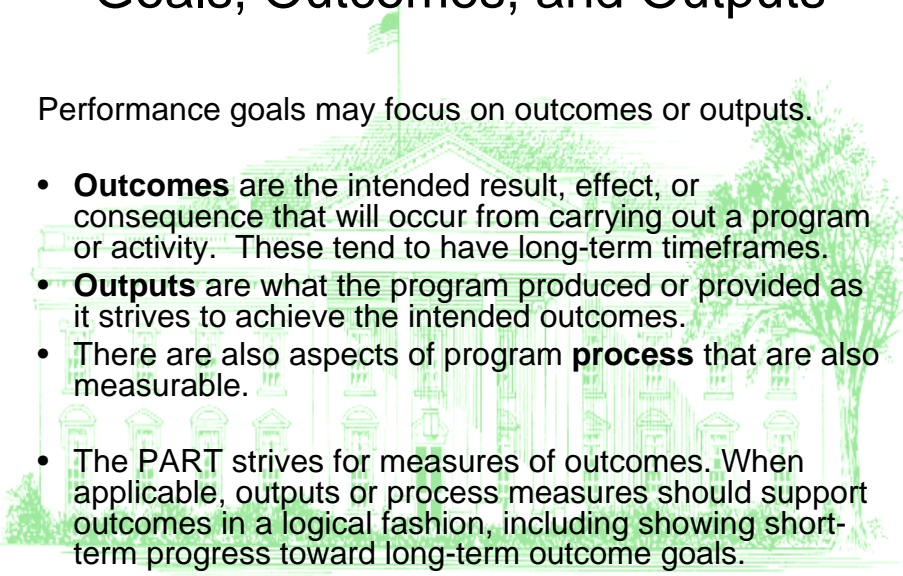

Goal = performance measure + target

Goals, Outcomes, and Outputs

Performance goals may focus on outcomes or outputs.

- Outcomes are the intended result, effect, or consequence that will occur from carrying out a program or activity. These tend to have long-term timeframes.
- Outputs are what the program produced or provided as it strives to achieve the intended outcomes.
- There are also aspects of program process that are also measurable.
- The PART strives for measures of outcomes. When applicable, outputs or process measures should support outcomes in a logical fashion, including showing short-term progress toward long-term outcome goals.

PART Results

- PART assessments yield overall program “effectiveness” rating.
- More importantly, PART assessments provide detail of specific strengths and weaknesses.
- Together, these observations provide input to budget and management decisions.
- Agencies and programs are accountable for recommendations.

PART Status

- In 2004, we have had the most sweeping, detailed assessment of U.S. Government programs - 400 programs (about $1 trillion).
- 20% of programs to be added each year.
